Permissions, Laws and Regulations for Scattering Ashes on the River Thames

You are not required to obtain any form of licence to scatter ashes on the River Thames. However, the Environmental Agency states that only ashes and biodegradable materials may be placed into the River.

Biodegradable Urns

If you do not want to scatter the ashes directly into the River, you may want to use a biodegradable urn. These urns are designed to float for a short period on the surface and then gently sink to the riverbed. The outer layers then dissolve just leaving the ashes. This stops the possibility of ashes blowing away if you scatter directly onto the River surface.

Biodegradable urns are available from many suppliers, including Amazon. Just search the term 'biodegradable urn for water'.

Flowers

As flowers are obviously biodegradable, they are permitted to be placed into the River. These can be brought on by yourself, or we can organise the flowers including delivery for you. Just use the contact form to obtain a quote.

We are here to help

We appreciate that this is a difficult and emotional time for you and your family. At London and Thames Boat Company we pride ourselves on being able to offer bespoke cruises. We hope the above offers you some guidance during this time. Please use the contact form on our website to get a quote or for any other questions you may have.
